On Oct. 15, 2023, Suzanne Somers passed away from breast cancer at the age of 76 in Palm Springs, CA. Popularly known as Chrissy Snow on the TV sitcom “Three’s Company”, airing from 1977 to 1984, Suzanne was also a well-known businesswoman, author, singer, and health spokesperson. Her character, Chrissy, was known to be charming and quite ditzy, often adding humor to the show.

In 2000, she received her original diagnosis of breast cancer, which led to her becoming an advocate for alternative medicine and treatments for cancer and a variety of other diseases. From 1970 to 2021, she lived in a beautiful mansion in Palm Springs with her husband, Alan Hamel. In 2021, she sold her desert retreat for $8.5 million and moved to a new home they built, not too far away from their original residence, with the goal of ensuring there was plenty of greenery and excellent air quality. As time went on, Suzanne had an incredibly successful career and paved the way in the fitness and wellness realm, often appearing in infomercials to sell a variety of products ranging from dietary supplements to cosmetics. Her passion for wellness, combined with her entrepreneurial spirit, made her a very influential individual who many will remember for years to come.
